Fairfax League of Conservation Voters Endorses in the Fairfax Chairman and Board of Supervisors races

Fairfax, VA – The Fairfax League of Conservation Voters (FLCV), which works to turn environmental values into local priorities, announces the endorsement of the following candidates in the 2011 Fairfax County Chairman and Board of Supervisors races.

Sharon Bulova for Fairfax County Chairman
John Cook for Braddock District Supervisor
John Foust for Dranesville District Supervisor
Penny Gross for Mason District Supervisor
Cathy Hudgins for Hunter Mill District Supervisor
Gerry Hyland for Mt. Vernon District Supervisor
Jeff McKay for Lee District Supervisor
Linda Smyth for Providence District Supervisor

The FLCV endorsement process is a rigorous one and we are confident that our endorsement will foster greater collaboration with our locally elected officials, enhance our ability to continue working in our preferred non partisan environment, and bring in new perspective to our work as we continue to build relationships with like minded organizations.

The FLCV is an independent political action committee whose mission is to protect, preserve and promote a healthy environment for all citizens of Fairfax County by electing officials dedicated to environmental stewardship. We believe that a conservation ethic is necessary to maintain our quality of life and our economic vitality depends on environmental sustainability. Fairfax has a tradition of environmental excellence, from protecting the Occoquan watershed to preserving Huntley Meadows and our stream valleys. We will support candidates that respect our heritage and preserve our County for future generations. The FLCV works in close alliance with other federal, state and local environmental organizations and its membership reflect citizens who live in all nine magisterial districts of Fairfax County.
